* Cass Street Publishers, which produces the Factorium, doesn't require a purchase order/PO number. But if your school or district does, you should get one. Payment terms are Net 30. The price quoted above is a per-school price; each school that has any students or teachers who use the product(s) must pay a subscription/licensing fee for that school. Copyright violations include, but are not limited to, copying any product in any way for use by anyone at another school, district, or district program, or for use by parents or other adults; posting a product or password on the Internet or transmitting a product or password by email or phone or other means; sharing passwords or products with educators whose schools are not subscribers, or with homeschoolers, substitute teachers, student teachers, or parents or other adults. Teachers at different schools may not "chip in" to share the cost of one subscription between themselves and then use the products at more than one school.
